Palestine and Election 2023

For election 2023 Palestine Solidarity Network Aotearoa has sent three simple questions to each candidate from all major parties. The questions are:

- 1. If elected to parliament, will you support moves to implement United Nations Security Council resolution UNSC 2334?
- 2. If elected to parliament, will you support the New Zealand government voting in favour of a planned United Nations General Assembly resolution declaring Israel an apartheid state?
- 3. If elected to parliament will you support moves for the New Zealand government to recognise Palestine as a state?

We provided detailed background information for each question to stress its importance and to give the context for it.

Despite requesting individualised responses from candidates, for the most part the National Party, Labour Party and Green Party candidates have relied on prepared responses from their party. These “party policy” responses, in alphabetical order, are:

Green Party:

1. Yes. The Green Party supports moves to implement United Nations Security Council resolution UNSC 2334. The Green Party believes the ongoing occupation of the West Bank and further encroachment by Israel into Palestinian territories is a denial of the rights of the Palestinian people. The Green Party supports boycotting goods and services produced in the occupied territories.
2. Yes. The Green Party would endorse New Zealand supporting UN resolutions that condemn discrimination against Palestinian citizens within Israel and the occupied territories. The Green Party agrees with international human rights groups that have labelled the actions of the Israeli government as a form of apartheid due to the persistent denial of Palestinian rights to self-determination and denial of equal rights within the territories controlled by the Israeli government.
3. Yes. The Green Party Manifesto 2023 includes a commitment to call on the Government of Aotearoa to formally recognise Palestine as a state.

Labour Party:

Aotearoa New Zealand remains committed to supporting a two-state solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, which envisions the creation of an independent state of Palestine living in peace and security alongside the state of Israel.

While New Zealand is a long-standing supporter of Israel's right to live in peace and security, successive New Zealand governments have also been clear that Israeli settlements and some actions are in violation of international law and have negative implications for the peace process.

All sides have a responsibility to de-escalate, stop the violence and prevent further suffering and loss of life.

In recognising the two-state solution, in recognising the right of Palestinians to security, to a stable home, and the right of Israel to exist, the Government is supporting the outcomes that much of the international community seeks and continues to call for increased efforts to reduce tensions and promote peace.

Aotearoa New Zealand stands ready to assist in any constructive way we can to support urgent de-escalation of the situation.

National Party:

The three questions that you've asked each election candidate all have a degree of complexity behind them that does not lead to easy yes and no answers. For that reason the National party has provided the following statements.

1. If elected to Parliament, will you support moves to implement United Nations Security Council resolution UNSC 2334?

New Zealand supports the notion of Israel and Palestine living peacefully side by side and we support efforts to achieve that outcome.

2. If elected to parliament, will you support the New Zealand Government voting in favour of a planned United Nations General Assembly resolution declaring Israel an apartheid state?

National does not believe that labelling Israel as an apartheid state would advance the goal of a peaceful solution to the current very long-standing animosities.

3. If elected to parliament will you support moves for the New Zealand Government to recognise Palestine as a state?

National has long used the term 'Occupied Palestinian Territory', however we do not plan to recognise Palestine as a State at this stage.

Please don't send Palestine to the back of the queue!

Earlier in the campaign you were sent these three questions from the Palestine Solidarity Network Aotearoa

- 1. If elected to parliament, will you support moves to implement United Nations Security Council resolution UNSC 2334?
- 2. If elected to parliament, will you support the New Zealand government voting in favour of a planned United Nations General Assembly resolution declaring Israel an apartheid state?
- 3. If elected to parliament will you support moves for the New Zealand government to recognise Palestine as a state?

I know you will be very busy with the election campaign but we'd appreciate if you could take the time to answer these questions. Important background material was provided for each question. In case you have lost track of this information it is online here.

The situation for Palestinians living under Israeli military occupation is becoming more serious by the day after the election of a particularly racist and rabidly anti-Palestinian regime in Israel.

Please don't send Palestine to the back of the queue.

Look forward to your response.

Appeal to Swimming New Zealand to withdraw its seven-swimmer team from the World Aquatics Junior Championships in apartheid Israel

Graphic from South African activists opposing their team going to Israel

PSNA issued this media release in response to Swimming New Zealand sending a team to the World Aquatics Junior Swimming Championships which are being held in Netanya, Israel from 6 -10 September.

Palestine Solidarity Network Aotearoa has sent an appeal to Swimming New Zealand to withdraw its seven-swimmer team from the World Aquatics Junior Swimming Championships to be held in Netanya, Israel from 6 -10 September. The appeal was sent yesterday.

The appeal is in response to repeated pleas from Palestinian civil society for BDS (Boycotts, Divestment and Sanctions) against Israel because of its well-documented apartheid policies against Palestinians, its military occupation of all historic Palestine and its refusal to allow Palestinian refugees to return to their land and homes in Israel/Palestine.

“We are calling on Swimming New Zealand to stand with Palestinians and turn their back on racism and apartheid” says PSNA National Chair John Minto.

“As Israeli cabinet ministers encourage racist pogroms against Palestinian villages in the occupied West Bank it is unconscionable that New Zealand would give comfort to this regime”

“We don’t want this country to be part of ‘sports-washing’ racism and oppression by Israel”

Already this year the Israeli regime has killed more than 200 Palestinians, including at least 34 children, making 2023 the deadliest year for Palestinians in the occupied West Bank since 2005. At the same time Israel has imprisoned 165 Palestinian children and issued demolition orders for 57 schools in the occupied West Bank that will leave 6,550 Palestinians without education.

Even the venue for the competition reeks with racist history.

“The town of Netanya where the event is to be held has been built on the site of the Palestinian district of Umm Khalid, ethnically cleansed by Israeli militias during the 1947/48 Nakba. The Palestinian survivors are now refugees, refused the right to return to their land and homes”

The sports and cultural boycott of apartheid Israel this century follows the successful sports boycott of apartheid South Africa last century in which New Zealand played a significant role.

Hosting an international swimming competition on colonized land, violently stolen from its Palestinian inhabitants who continue to be denied basic human rights, is helping to ‘sportswash’ the ongoing system of apartheid, settler colonialism and war crimes that Israel is conducting against the Palestinian people.

“New Zealand stood against racism last century and we must do the same today. Non-violent pressure through BDS against apartheid Israel is the way forward for Palestinian freedom”

“Swimming New Zealand must do the right thing”

Kia ora Nick and Anna,

Urgent Appeal to Swimming New Zealand to withdraw the Aotearoa New Zealand team from the World Aquatics Junior Championships

I am deeply concerned at the decision by Swimming New Zealand to send a swimming team to the World Aquatics Junior Swimming Championships in Israel from 6 -10 September.

Why has Swimming New Zealand not been paying attention?

Israel is a racist, apartheid state where Palestinians have been calling for BDS (Boycott, Divestment and Sanctions) for almost 20 years to bring pressure for on Israel to end its well-documented apartheid policies against Palestinians, end its military occupation of all historic Palestine and its refusal to allow Palestinian refugees to return to their land and homes in Israel/Palestine.

It is a timorous decision to send a swimming team to Israel in these circumstances. True courage and sporting principles, in line with the constitution of World Aquatics, is best represented by this story of Former Palestinian backstroke champion Amjad Tantish

Swimming instructor Amjad Tantish at the pool he constructed, literally, out of the rubble of war - image by Monther Rasheed.

“There is no level playing field in an apartheid state. Former Palestinian backstroke champion, Amjed Tantish, is fighting the odds to bring a Palestinian swimming team to the Olympics. From a 1948 refugee family, the first pool he built in Gaza port was polluted from sewage pipes destroyed by Israeli forces in 2004. Undeterred he built an improvised pool on the beach that was destroyed by Israeli bombs in 2006. Tantish then built a pool on his family farmland to continue giving swimming lessons to children. In the 2008 Israeli ‘Cast Lead’ war on Gaza Tantish’s home was hit, killing two of his nephews, destroying the house and pool. Another attempt to create a pool in the port was thwarted by the 2014 ‘Protective Edge’ Israeli onslaught on Gaza that again destroyed sewage pipes polluting the sea and rendering the water supply undrinkable. Finally, using the rubble from bombed out buildings, he has created a pool in the port upstream from the sewage spills. Children that have been traumatised by constant war and the ongoing siege of Gaza, the world’s largest open-air prison, can again enjoy learning to swim and hope to live Tantish’s Olympic dream. At least until the next Gaza bombing”

I would welcome your assurance Swimming New Zealand will not attend any future swimming events in apartheid Israel or compete with teams representing this racist state.

New Zealand stood up with black South Africans against apartheid. We, including Swimming New Zealand, must now stand alongside Palestinians against apartheid Israel.

Please respond without undue delay.

From the West Bank to Waikato

This month’s issue of NZ Doctor features Palestinian Dr Ruba Harfeil who came to Aotearoa New Zealand in 2012 with her husband Ahmed Saadeh and has been involved in setting up a marae-based clinic in the Waikato at Mangatoatoa Paa.

This delightful story is here but is unfortunately paywalled. However, another picture and a couple of snippets are included below.

You can send your congratulations to the writer Stephen Forbes here and the magazine here for this excellent story which humanises Palestinians living in Aotearoa New Zealand.

Stephen Forbes looks at a marae health venture through the eyes of its regular doctor, Ruba Harfeil, who left behind the Middle East for New Zealand in 2012

GP registrar Ruba Harfeil's eyes shine with the enthusiasm she feels for her role supporting the small rural Waikato settlement of Mangatoatoa Paa.

And Dr Harfeil's past serves her every day as a doctor with Te Awamutu Medical Centre.

Born in Jordan, she grew up under Israeli occupation in Jerusalem in the Palestinian West Bank. The landlocked territory has been occupied by Israel since the 1967 Six-Day War.

Her family eventually left the country and settled back in Jordan.

Dr Harfeil, 37, emigrated to New Zealand with her husband in 2012 and has been working at Te Awamutu Medical Centre since February last year.

The weight of colonialism

Growing up under Israeli occupation, Dr Harfeil feels she can relate to the struggles Māori have faced because of colonialism.

Dr Harfeil returned to the West Bank in 2018 with her three children, but she says it was a traumatic experience for them. Having grown up in New Zealand, they found it too hard to deal with the endless checkpoints, body searches and surveillance in the Occupied Territories.

Dr Harfeil has since returned to the Middle East, but met her family in Jordan to avoid the daily pressure of occupation. She and her husband were living in Jordan when they decided to move to New Zealand; he had gained a PhD scholarship in accounting at the University of Waikato.

It was in Jordan that Dr Harfeil trained as a doctor. (Her father is an immunologist and a professor at the Jordan University of Science and

Palestinians told to go to the back of the queue

PSNA National Chair John Minto wrote an opinion piece in response to the cancellation of Foreign Minister Nanaia Mahuta's proposed visit to Palestine. It was published in the Otago Daily Times – see picture below – but can be read more easily online here.

Palestinians told to go to the back of the queue

A "scheduling problem" was a missed opportunity, John Minto writes.

AFTER more than a year of talking about a visit to Palestine, and several false starts, Foreign Minister Nanaia Mahuta has finally called off a proposed trip to the Middle East before the election citing "scheduling problems".

This is deeply disappointing for this country, as well as for Palestinians. The proposed visit was an opportunity for the Labour government to shift New Zealand policy to give greater support to Palestinians living under the longest military occupation in modern history and hold Israel to account for its breaches of international law and Palestinian human rights.

This will not happen now and with opinion polls as they are in the leadup to October's election it is unlikely Mahuta will ever get to Palestine as Foreign Minister.

Abandoning the visit means Palestinians are being told they must once more go to the back of the queue.

The last time a New Zealand government minister went to Palestine was Ron Mark as minister of defence in 2019 when he gave the most awful display of obsequious behaviour when speaking with Israel's Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu.

Needless to say Mark never visited the Occupied Palestinian Territories – but did visit controversial Israeli arms manufacturer Elbit Systems. Since his visit, nothing significant has happened to change Israel's perception of this country as an uncritical friend.

Mahuta's visit could have delivered a watershed moment for New Zealand foreign policy and sent a clear signal that we will no longer turn a blind eye to Israel's policies.

This is particularly important because late last year Israel elected the most extreme government the country has ever had.

It has a prime minister, Netanyahu, who just two months ago said Israel "needs to crush the Palestinian ambition for an independent state". This new regime has stepped up the destruction of Palestinian communities, often with the support of lawless Israeli settlers, and has declared its "top priority" is to push ahead with more illegal Jewish-only settlements on Palestinian land. Recent policy announcements have followed through on this. Israel has taken Western governments' silence on Palestine as a green light for their takeover of all historic Palestine for Israel – a process which has been under way since 1948 and which has accelerated greatly under the current Israeli leadership. New Zealand has stood up in the past and been counted. In December 2016 the United Nations Security Council passed resolution 2334 (UNSC2334) in a 14-0 vote. This resolution was co-sponsored by the New Zealand National government (we occupied a seat on the Security Council at the time) with John Key as prime minister and Murray McCully as foreign minister. The resolution declares that, in the Occupied Palestinian Territories, Israeli settlements have "no legal validity" and constitute "a flagrant violation under international law". Unfortunately, the current government has not followed up on the steps required to implement the resolution here at home. A visit by Mahuta was an opportunity to do this.

Cancellation of the visit will be quietly welcomed by many in Wellington's government bureaucracy who want to see New Zealand policy on the Middle East mirror US policy. In other words, they want us to be quiet as Israel continues its military occupation of Palestine and its theft of Palestinian land. They want us to give Israel ongoing impunity for its violations of international law and United Nations resolutions. Meanwhile, there are positive moves within Israel itself where increasing numbers of Israeli groups and leading Jews are joining the international consensus of all credible human rights organisations that Israel is practising apartheid against Palestinians.

Recently, ex-Israeli attorney-general Michael Ben-Yair declared that "my country is now an apartheid regime" and an ex-Israeli Defence Force General, Amiram Levin, has accused the IDF of being a "partner in war crimes" when it stands by as Israeli settler extremists attack Palestinians. Levin describes the situation in the Occupied West Bank as "absolute apartheid" and went further when pressed in an interview whether he saw specific similarities with Nazi Germany. Levin replied: "Of course. It hurts. It's not nice, but that's the reality. It's better to deal with it, even if it is hard, than to ignore it."

And just two weeks ago, 750 "angry Jewish scholars" from across the political spectrum wrote an open letter to US Jewish communities charging that "You ignore apartheid in Israel."

We were not silent on South African apartheid and we must not be silent on Israeli apartheid. "Scheduling problems" should never be a reason for New Zealand to fail to stand up for Palestinian human rights, and to hold Israel to account. It is time we stood up now.

As the foremost international expert on apartheid, the late South African Archbishop Desmond Tutu said: "to be silent in the face of oppression is to take the side of the oppressor".

We will need some serious money to make our campaign as effective as possible. For example, we will need somewhere in the vicinity of $25,000 to bring speakers to New Zealand over the next year and organise large public meetings to help spread the message.

You can help. Are you able to donate a cup of coffee a month to the campaign? In other words, can you afford to make an automatic payment of $5 per month to support the Palestinian struggle? (If you can afford more that would be great!)

Because of mainstream news media complicity, daily headlines and commentary only occasionally ever mention the relentless Israeli violence in Palestine, not even the frequent air strikes!

However, daily news and statistics regarding the violence Palestinians are forced to live under are regularly reported on in the “In Occupied Palestine daily newsletter”, sourced and compiled for easy reading and correlation chiefly from the Palestinian Monitoring Group's daily situation reports.

The “In Occupied Palestine” daily newsletter continues to be circulated, by email, worldwide to subscribers only, as it has been over the last two decades.
